to allow for legal processes to play out, and that we will be taking steps in the new year to continue to elevate student voice and evaluate our systems for improvement.

Parents made the following comments/requests:

Teaching about sexual health, boundaries and consent is important for elementary kids, too. teach them when there are lower stakes.

Parents shared that they would also like to know more about mandatory reporting and decision processes that school staff go through. Maybe schools share this during school orientations?

jumping on bandwagons and not taking time to understand what happened and the accusations.
